FIVE AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED UPON

Mississippi May Make Poll Tax Uniform for Both Sexes.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 29.—Constitutional tinkering is the order of the day in this state and at the election to be held in November Mississippians, besides voting on presidential electors, congressmen, supreme and circuit judges and highway commissioners will vote on five constitutional amendments.

Two of these affect female suffrage, one giving the right to the ballot to Mississippi women regardless of the federal amendment and a companion resolution which fixes a uniform poll tax on male and female inhabitants. Another amendment regulates the powers and jurisdictions of supervisors over roads, ferries and bridges of the counties.

An amendment of interest is one providing for the election of levee commissioners. The submission of this amendment was the cause of a snappy legislative battle at the last session of the lawmaking body and there is much interest throughout the Mississippi delta.

The fifth amendment to the Constitution is for the relief of Confederate veterans and would give pensions to veterans whether or not they are indigent.

PREPARING STANDARDS FOR RAT PROOF HOUSES

Washington, D. C.—Special—Plans radical changes in the construction of business buildings, dwellings and wharves are being drawn up by the United States Health Service as part of a nation wide campaign for rat extermination. It was announced today.

Health officers from various states and the larger cities, at a conference in Galveston and Beaumont, Texas, to study bubonic plague and rat extermination, recommend to Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings that standard specifications for rat proof buildings be drawn up by the Public Health Service. These are to be furnished to the different states and cities in order that they may be incorporated in the building codes throughout the country.

"While bubonic plague is under control in this country, there will always be scattered infection until the rat can be exterminated," said General Cummings. "The most effective measure is permanent rat proofing of all buildings. Plans for this may easily be incorporated in any new construction. While the Public Health Service can concern itself directly only with the problem of plague prevention, there is an important economic problem that enters into this situation, due to the fact that a rat pest, according to authoritative estimates, there is one rat for every one person in the United States. To maintain this huge number of rats costs the people of this country approximately one cent per person every day for rat food, and intolerable and unnecessary burden for the people to carry."
